Consortium

Our Vision – “Professional Community”

“Destination resort - the preferred provider of information about lean software and system development.”

- www.leanssc.org

Mission

To promote and create awareness of Lean Thinking applied to software and systems engineering and associated competencies.

To create a knowledge stewardship program to organize existing and emerging intellectual property into three elements of Lean Thinking – Lean Science, Lean Management, and Lean Education.

Objective

To be the Locus for advanced thinking on applying lean to software & systems
development

To promote professionalism and adoption of these ideas.

Lean Thinking

- Lean Thinking provides foundational principles which involve the entire lifecycle of realizing business value; as the lifecycle cuts across the organization, so do the cultural impacts to drivers for Business, Management, and Technology.
- Lean Thinking provides principles, practices, and a philosophy of a practitioner evolved system which focuses on central Lean concerns, including:
 - Value – incrementally delivered by highest business value,
 - Flow – continual increments, high quality, fast
 - Waste – defined as activities and approaches that reduce the economic value of the product to customers and other stakeholders.
- Lean-Thinking is comprised of Lean Management, Lean Science, and Knowledge Stewardship, and is the foundation for Business Agility, Management Agility, and Technical Team Agility (the key components for achieving Enterprise Agility).
